Sgt. Thomas Rich has been a certified police officer in the State of New Jersey for the past 15 years. He was recently featured on Good Morning America, as an internet safety expert and has spoken to over 40,000 people in the last 3 years in regards to cyber-bullying. The purpose of "Always Connected" is to inform law enforcement, educators, administration, youth workers, youth groups, parents and children of all ages how to utilize technology in a positive way.

Having dealt with children and juvenile investigations for the past ten years, Sgt Rich realized the huge impact that technology was having on children, especially in regards to cyber-bullying, Sgt Rich decided to focus his efforts on educating audiences about current trends, real life problems and solutions for schools, parents and children. Most importantly help to address the problems that children face using technology and how these pitfalls lead to cyber-bullying. Having spent his entire career dedicated to children has helped make this program exceptional at every turn and most importantly it brings SOLUTIONS!
